The subscription books will open on MONDAY, December 7, 1891, at 9:30 o'clock, and close at 4:30 on SATURDAY, December 12.

If you have any reason for changing your bank a count or opening a new one. This corporation is a reorganization of the old-established and weil-known business of the Schillinger Paving Company, whose operations have been con-fracted for many years with satisfaction and profit in all large cities in the United States, and it is intended by the aid of increased capital and able management to reely extend its operations and include in them the NG, for conducting which the company will have an and concrete work and will lay a new and improved known as The Anchor Iron-bound Curb.

Paving contracts are very profitable and this company, from its large experience and extended operations, is able to and does command a very large share of the work in this line advertised for and given out by the city government and private property owners. Bids in its interest for work for the coming year have been accepted to a large extent, and orders from other quarters are daily offered to it.

The success of other companies carrying on a similar quently at a large premium.

40,395 inkling of what the day would bring forth. The caucus was called to order by Chairman Holman shortly after 10 o'clock and the roll was answered by 212 members, fifteen less than attended the caucus of Saturday. New arrivals kept coming in all the time, however, and swelled the number so that on the first ballot 226 answered to their names.

THE BALLOTING BEGUN. The balloting on the speakership was begun shortly after 10 o'clock. The call began withshortly after 10 o'clock. The call began without any expectation on the part of candidates that there would be a break for several ballots, but various schemes were at work to change the situation, the result of which no one was ready to predict. The working of outside influences was more apparent on the surface than at any time during the contest. The impression has arisen that ex-President Cleveland is vitally interested in the outcome of this speakership fight, caused by the fact that Mr. Vilas and Mr. Dickerson are actively working for Mills, and it is said that "Al-" Fletcher, representing Lamont and Whitney, is taking Subscribed and sworn to before me this seventh GOVERNMENT RECEIPTS TODAY. - Internal

A review of the vote in Saturday's cancus which has been prepared shows that the states which has been prepared shows that the states supporting Crisp in this fight cast 120 democratic votes in the electoral college, while those states supporting Mills cast but 38 democratic votes in the electoral college.

The Mills people, on the other hand, argue that their support comes from the new field of democratic effort in the west, and that his election means the continuance of missionary work. The Crisp people reply: "Rainbow chasing." This is about the only turn of the argument this morning that makes any pretense to newness.

SING SING, N. Y., Dec. 7 .- Martin D. Loppy

died today in the death chair for the murder of his wife on July 4, 1890. Warden Brown left the prison at about o'clock, got into a back and rode to the railroad depot. He waited there until 9:20 a.m., when depot. He waited there until 9:20 a.m., when trains arrived from New York and the upper part of the state. On these trains were Dr. Carlos McDonald and Dr. Jenkins, both of New York, and Dr. Daniels. There were four more witnesses among Warden Brown's guests, whose names could not be ascertained. Warden Brown conrecously greeted the visitors and the first question they asked the warden was whether they would be able to return tonight. The warden replied with a smile that he would answer that question later on. Some reporters overheard this conversation and the warden quickly ushered his guests into carriages and in a few minutes they were conveyed to the warden as few minutes they were conveyed to the warden as few minutes they were conveyed to the warden.

few minutes they were conveyed to the war

When Mr. Connaughton was asked if the execution was likely to take place today be laughed, and the only answer he would make to the newspaper man was that it would be well for them to be around.

THE BLACK FLAG BAISED. The signal, a black flag, indicating that be had been put to death, was hoisted on the flagstaff over Warden Brown's house at 12:08. At that time there were but few persons ontside of the prison except the armed men acting as a guard around the prison and the newspaper reporters. The latter had kept up a constant vigil and the first indication that the law was carried out and Loppy sent into eter-mity was the appearance of a man's head through the small cupola on top of the warden's house. The man upon whom this unpleasant duty de-volved evidently sought to avoid being seen and quickly ran the dismal death signal up and disappeared. disappeared.

The exact time that Loppy was killed cannot be officially stated, but presuming that the man was promptly sent to display the signal, not more than three or four minutes could have clapsed between the minute Loppy was actu-ally killed and the time of the man hoisting the ally killed and the time of the man hoisting the signals. According to Warden Brown the exe-cution was carried out the same as at the time ally killed and the time of the ma of the killing of the four men in the same chair in July last. The warden refused to give any information except to say that the law had been carried out and that the execution of Loppy was a success.

murderers who have been confined in the death house. He listened with bowed head, and when the warden finished reading the doomed man was led out of his cage. The little procession then started for the death chamber. Warden Brown and Keeper Connaughton lied the way directly ahead of Loppy, who had to be led by the keepers through the dark passageway on account of his partial blindness.

IN THE EXECUTION ROOM As soon as Loppy strived in the execution room he was promptly placed in the chair and strapped so that he could not move head, hand or foot. While this was being done the experts, physicians and other persons present were grouped about the room in a semicircle. The electrodes were then applied to the condemned man, one covering the forehead and temples and the other the call of the right leg. The electrodes were moistened with a solution As soon as Loppy arrived in the execution of salt water before the current was turned on and at intervals afterward. Capt. Hilbert, who was in charge of the death machinery, had the dynamo running and everything was ready for turning on the current.

As the signal was given to the man at the switchboard to turn on the current Doctors MacDonald, Landy and Rockwell stood near the chair with watches in their hands to time the respiration and the beating of the heart. None of the witnesses would reveal how Loppy died. It is understood that 1,485 volts were used, the same as at the July execution, and that a cur-

As soon as Loppy was pronounced dead the straps which bound his body were removed and the dead murderer was carried into the apartment directly off the execution room where an autopsy was held under the direction, of Drs. MacDonald and Landy. The other physicians were research and thereall made access physicians were present and they all made notes of what the autopsy revealed. Loppy's remains were placed in a rough pine coffin and sometime after sundown this evening the coffin will be borne on the shoulders of four convicts to the quick lime, alongside of the graves of Wood, Slocum and Jugiro, who were executed last
